Apply today: uli.org/healthmentors
Applications due Friday, February 19, 2021

The ULI/Randall Lewis Health Mentorship Program experience will allow participants to deepen understanding of opportunities to advance health through the built environment, learn about ULI, and establish a ULI network.

Program Eligibility:
- Currently enrolled (full or part time) in an accredited graduate program in real estate, architecture, urban planning, or a related field
- Passionate about championing health equity through land use and the built environment throughout career
- Available to attend the 2021 ULI Spring Meeting and 2021 ULI Fall Meeting (more details below)

Program Benefits:
- Financial Support for Registrations and Travel, if applicable:
  - ULI's 2021 Spring Meeting – Virtual, May 10-12, 2021
  - ULI's 2021 Fall Meeting – Virtual or in Chicago, Illinois, October 11-14, 2021
  - The Randall Lewis/Building Healthy Places Forum or similar programming at both meetings
  - One Product Council dinner and meeting at both meetings, when applicable
- Professional Development Support:
  - One-time $1,200 stipend
  - One-year ULI membership
  - 1:1 mentorship with an ULI Industry Leader
  - ULI Mentorship Program Alumni Network
  - Publication of experience reflections on ULI website (including photos and short bios)

ULI is grateful for the generous support of ULI Trustee Randall Lewis
